He was fined $15 on April 24, 1917 and $25 on March 12, 1919 for drunkenness. He has been up twice for non-support, municipal court records here show.

MORMONS TO BUILD ANOTHER TEMPLE

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Mesa, Ariz.—Out here in the center of the Great American desert, the Mormons are to build another temple, second only to their tabernacle at Salt Lake City. The temple, which is to be built on a hill, is to be named the "Mormon Church of the Latter Day Saints."

Where Heat Is Worst

Shaded portions of two maps above show location of excessive heat areas in Europe and America.

Several European scientists, who have been studying the world-wide heat waves of the last few weeks, blame the unusual torridity on sun spots, or "storms on the sun," which have been prevalent. A peculiar feature of the hot spell has been that it did not extend in zones, but was concentrated in certain spots. Europe, Ireland and parts of England and France are suffering particularly, and the drought in the Volga river valley in Russia is so protracted that a serious famine is under way because of destroyed crops.

The reason for the heat waves, according to the scientists, is that the sun has been unusually active. The number of sun spots has been unusually high, and this has caused the heat waves.

The heat waves have been unusually severe, and have caused a serious drought in many parts of the world. The heat waves have also caused a serious famine in many parts of the world.

PROFITS OF WHITE SOX IN SIX YEARS TOTAL $409,337

FINANCIAL SECRETS ARE LAID BARE IN COURT.

$225,000 IN 1920

Only Loss in 1918 When War Left Mark; Commy Draws $50,000.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Chicago.—The financial secrets of the Chicago American League baseball club, always guarded zealously, were revealed in the base ball trial Thursday, the club's books showing a net profit of $409,337 during the past six years, more than $225,000 of this coming in 1920 alone.

Harry Grabner, secretary of the club, brought the records into court at the request of the defense, which wanted to prove by them that the alleged sellout of the White Sox players in the 1919 world's series had not injured the club.

The figures showed gross receipts of $2,622,537 for the six years. In only one year, was there a loss—1918, when the war cut the season short. The deficit then was $51,074.

Grabner's testimony also showed the tremendous expense of a major league club, ranging from more than $225,000 in 1915 to nearly $300,000 in 1920.

Charles A. Comiskey, president of the club, drew an annual salary of $50,000. Grabner testified.

Previous to Grabner's testimony the defense called John Collins, and Harry Leibold, former White Sox players, now with the Boston Red Sox, and Walter Reuther, who pitched for Cincinnati in the world's series.

They had been planned to have these men tell whether they thought the 1919 series was on the square, but the state raised so many objections that they were withdrawn after being asked if they had an opinion in the matter.

The defense Thursday resumed its bombardment of evidence against the state. It began with testimony Wednesday resulting in the freeing of two defendants, a tentative promise from the court to free three others unless more evidence was presented.

The defense also introduced evidence of a conspiracy to throw the 1919 world's series.

St. Louis witnesses went on the stand Thursday to testify for Carl Stupp, St. Louis defender, who has been promised his freedom unless more evidence is introduced against him. Buck Weaver, another player, also testified.

GIRLS BRIGHT WHEN YOUNGER; BOYS GAIN IN COLLEGE YEARS

Chicago.—Girls apparently are brighter than boys, at least in their younger years. Last year, according to Superintendent of Schools Peter Mortenson, "If you don't think so," he said, "check up on the honor students of Koshkonong high school. Girls are better adapted to study than boys during the period of adolescence."

"But in college things are different. There the men usually have to help the girls with their lessons."

Be Fair or Keep Out, Is Alternative

London.—The United States shipping board, it was learned here Thursday, has delivered an ultimatum to the British shipping board, that unless its terms are accepted, the shipping board will "decide an open market" and haul anything anywhere at any rate. The board also will invoke the retaliatory measures embodied in the Jones shipping act under which vessels owned by unfair competitors may be excluded from the United States ports, the ultimatum declared.

TAX PRINCIPLES ARE AGREED UPON

Repeal of Excess Profits Assessment First Plan of G. O. P.

By DAVID LAWRENCE.
Copyright 1921, by Janesville Gazette.
Washington—Tax programs are like time-tables, subject to change without notice. But certain principles have been agreed upon by President Harding and administration leaders which can be of some guidance to taxpayers. Those principles, as explained at the white house, are not planned at the white house, but are necessarily committed to the administration by a cut and dried procedure which will prevent a change of mind. In other words, nothing is actually in the bill that passes both houses, but so far as anyone can tell, the best judgment that can be marshaled at present leads to the following conclusions:

First—The excess profits tax must be taken. This action will be taken not merely because the revenue from excess profits has diminished to such an extent that it compares unfavorably with the income tax, but because the tax is a necessary part of the program to reduce the burden on individual enterprises, initiative and expansion.

Second—The return to 3-cent postage for first class mail. This step is being taken judiciously by the republican administration, for the shrewd Albert Sidney Burleson, postmaster general under the democratic administration, took the view that the campaign orators will point to the extra postage as a sign that the poor man's burdens have not been decreased but increased. However, the 3-cent rate is favored as a great revenue producer and as the best means of getting better postal service. Will Hays, the new postmaster general, is trying to produce an efficient postal service, and is making good headway. He finds it necessary to spend more money to get efficiency. He has been told by business men to be efficient and incur a debt, but the efficiency is an extra cost on the price of the mail. So the price of efficiency is an extra cost on the price of the mail. The general opinion is that the stamp tax will have a beneficial effect in curbing down the large surpluses. The hardest thing in the world to explain to the average taxpayer is the why and the wherefore of the stamp tax. The average taxpayer gives no inkling as to how the scientific tax experts devised it and the taxpayer doesn't see any particular scheme of percentages behind it.

The large surpluses have, however, operated like the excess profits taxes to destroy initiative at the very time when men of capital should be using it to promote American enterprise, giving employment to the unemployed and starting the wheels of business and industry on the road to sound and unimpeded prosperity. That there will be a diminution of large surpluses can be taken for granted.

Fourth—All the schemes for sales tax, turn-over tax, production tax or consumer's tax will go by the boards. That is the trend at present. The administration has listened to all the various plans proposed and attempted to find one that wouldn't increase the burden on the ultimate consumer. This suspicion exists that the idea is un-American and leads in the end to double taxation. This is stoutly denied but the truth is that the administration hasn't been convinced and the tendency is to forget those various sales and consumer's taxes and try to raise money by other means.

Just Economy.
President Harding himself has told callers that he doesn't believe relief from tax burdens can be accomplished by new devices or rather by new tax proposals but by a rigid cutting down of government expenditures. The highest principle underlying the whole tax program is the battle as applied to the expenditure column. By every dollar that the expense bill is diminished, the amount that must be raised by taxation is reduced. Mr. Harding insists that when all is said and done the best way to reduce taxes is for the government not to spend so much money. The drive for economy makes headway for a little while, however, only to run up against some after-the-war snag or emergency situation like that involved in financing the railroads or agriculture or the shipping board and the best laid plans go awry. In a nutshell tax revision this year will mean tax readjustment—a transfer of the burdens and a more even distribution in the hope that business

Tough Winter Seen by Salvation Army Head; Thousands Are Hungry

[By Associated Press.]
New York.—Commander Evangeline Booth, head of the Salvation Army in the United States, says the country is facing the worst winter. "In New York City alone," she declared Wednesday, "we are receiving an average of 800 registered applications a week for regular employment. That is less than one third of the actual number applying because we do not register the transients or unskilled men; nor does it include the hundreds who come to us daily for food and lodging. Of the applicants for work Wednesday, 34 were really professional men whose credentials entitle them to good paying positions. "Judging from the applications made so far more than sixty per cent of the applicants come from outside New York, many of those out of work come to New York, New York, cannot take care of her own, therefore how can she take care of the thousands who flock here?" "Most of the men who apply to us for relief are young men under 40 who are willing to work but there are no jobs for them. Last week we had 84 families who were actually starving. Eviction, because the rent money was lacking, was imminent for most of them."

DON'T BLAME STATE FOR HIGH TAXES; TROUBLE AT HOME

trouble was the state levy had been omitted in one year and doubled the next. We rather liked the omitting process but we strenuously objected to the doubling the following year, and our troubles then as now, were not with those at the capital but right at home.

"It is quite difficult at times to convince ourselves or our friends that our tax troubles lie at home and not with the state, and the gentlemen that I spoke of in the first part of this letter is no exception, so I agreed to take a little journey with him at my first opportunity in the fields of taxation that we might to some extent, discover the bumps. So here the journey begins.

"If others are interested and wish to go with us, get your jitters in line, remembering always that 'misery loves company' and 'the more the merrier.' This is somewhat paradoxical but nevertheless true. We are all cal and expect quite a procession. Please do not think we are to have a dull time on this journey for we expect to go by the way of the city hall and take another walk on the milk ordinance out of business, it will help the tax payer some.

"The taxes paid by the average citizen are the tax on his property and the tax on his income. The word property includes both real and personal and refers only to taxes arising by state authority. Taxes to the Federal Government are excluded from this discussion.

"We have been sailing over smooth and untroubled waters so long that many of us have not kept track of the annual tax levy and the figures here submitted may be a surprise to some of us, although in a general way are known.

"The aggregate general property tax levied for all purposes, state, county, local and school, in 1920, and collected in 1920 in the state of Wisconsin was $70,328,976.00. The aggregate income tax collected in the same year was $3,320,329.00.

"The total tax bill for all purposes collected from the people for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1920, (the last complete year for which the data is available) was $75,609,305.00.

"The soldiers' educational bonus and service recognition fund taxes are excluded from the foregoing because levied for a special and temporary purpose and if included would impair comparison with taxes of other years and in other states where no bonus taxes are levied.

"From the total collection of taxes amounting to $76,509,205 and which incentive will be restored. Lower taxes for the nation as a whole are still in the realm of conjecture, but the tendency is to forget those various sales and consumer's taxes and try to raise money by other means.

President Harding himself has told callers that he doesn't believe relief from tax burdens can be accomplished by new devices or rather by new tax proposals but by a rigid cutting down of government expenditures. The highest principle underlying the whole tax program is the battle as applied to the expenditure column. By every dollar that the expense bill is diminished, the amount that must be raised by taxation is reduced. Mr. Harding insists that when all is said and done the best way to reduce taxes is for the government not to spend so much money. The drive for economy makes headway for a little while, however, only to run up against some after-the-war snag or emergency situation like that involved in financing the railroads or agriculture or the shipping board and the best laid plans go awry. In a nutshell tax revision this year will mean tax readjustment—a transfer of the burdens and a more even distribution in the hope that business

"O'BRIEN," SPEAKER AT DELAVAN, GIVEN "TIP" BY SPEED COP

Fame means nothing to the speed cops.

The fact that William Jennings Bryan, press agent extraordinary for silver currency, purple grape juice and radishes, was accompanied by Jack Baristow, Waukegan citizen, alone saved him from arrest, perhaps incarceration.

Baristow never broke into print except in his home town, nor has he ever run for president. But he can step on a mean accelerator. So he showed Tuesday night when he was taking Mr. Bryan from Delavan, where the commoner spoke during the afternoon, to Waukegan. Reports indicate that they were not looking on the trip, the automobile driven by Mr. Baristow having buzzed along at a clip sufficient to attract the attention of Marshal J. B. Congdon, who halted the car at Antioch.

"What's your hurry?—Pull over to the side of the road," warned the cop.

"We are bound for Waukegan," said Mr. Bryan. Then the former secretary of state, Democratic leader, statesman and prohibitionist started to recite his achievements. He mentioned Woodrow Wilson as a character reference. He talked of Nob-raska, of Florida but the marshal never batted an eye.

The cop was unimpressed, but Baristow suddenly retorted: "Well if you are a friend of Jack's— you are probably all right," advised the marshal to Mr. Bryan.

"You got this time—but if I catch you again Mr. O'Brien, you won't get off so easy."

Elkhorn Pastor Resigns Pulpit

Elkhorn.—The Rev. Fred Harrison has resigned as pastor of the Elkhorn Congregational church, to accept a call from the church at Elmhurst, Ill. He will leave Elkhorn in September.

Miss Florence Beck has gone to the state for the general property tax, $193,254.33 and from income tax $12,781.21, making a total of $206,035.54.

"During the same period Rock county received from the state the following: Educational $25,080.73, Highway aid $20,037.07, and all other $33,644.85, or a total of $168,759.65. Subtracting $161,769.00 in the form of benefits received from the state from the total amount paid the state of $206,035.54 we have $44,256.59 as Rock county's state tax in that year. Some counties received from the state an amount in excess of the general property tax and income taxes paid by them.

"From the figures submitted it is manifestly unfair and altogether unjust to claim that the state tax is burdensome to any great extent or that it is in any way responsible for actual or impending tax distress. If we wish to lighten our tax burdens, let us begin at home.

DR. STONE KILLED RESCUING WIFE

Misstep on Mountain With Mate in Arms Causes Fatal Fall.

Barstow, Albert.—Rescued after eight days of exposure on a rock ledge at the base of Mount Banon, Mrs. W. E. Stone, wife of the president of Purdue University, was carried on a stretcher to the base of the mountain, where she was rescued after nine miles away.

The body of Dr. Stone, who was plunged to his death when he slipped on the rocky ledge, to which Mrs. Stone previously had fallen, had not been recovered Wednesday night. The body lies jammed between two jagged rocks and indications were that he had been killed instantly.

Dr. Stone was kept at Marble Creek until he could be brought down the Spray river to Barstow. Information was that Mrs. Stone was gaining in strength. When searching parties found her Monday she was near death from exposure and starvation.

"Dr. and Mrs. Stone, both considered competent mountaineers, left Barstow on July 15 to attempt the ascent of Mount Banon, a 14,000-foot peak, the foot of the mountain, which is near here, they discarded their heavy clothing and camp equipment and started the climb.

Dr. Stone succeeded only a little way when Mrs. Stone slipped into a crevice and fell to a ledge 17 feet below. Her husband was unable to raise her to the surface with a rope and he left her in the crevice. With his wife in his arms, Dr. Stone attempted to climb back up the wall of the crevice, but lost his footing and fell to his death in a deep ravine. Mrs. Stone slipped back to the ledge where she had first lodged, and was unable to get away.

Owing to the extremely difficult country, she had to be carried over the top of the mountain, a 14,000-foot peak, a route has been chosen which avoids all summit crossings.

U. S. Paid Close to 15 Millions for Camp Grant

Camp Grant, the famous army concentration and war training camp near Rockford which is to be abandoned, cost the government approximately $15,000,000. During the highest period of the training period the camp housed 50,000 soldiers, not counting civilian population.

The majority of Rock county men who went into the army, trained at Grant for a period of time previous to being sent to organized units.

The great reservation was established in 1917 when the government leased 5,640 acres and turned the pastures, corn fields and farm land into an immense military camp. The government later turned back a part of the land so that 4,000 acres was the amount held by the war department at the end of the war. The highest price paid was $200 an acre and the average price $200. Major General George Bell, Jr., is now commander of the camp and the Sixth division. He was in command of the 33rd division in France.

Thomas H. Barry, was the first commander of Grant and was leader of the 8th division in France. The camp figured in the investigation of the excessive costs paid under the notorious "cost plus" system.

PRECIOUS STONES AND THEIR QUALITIES AS BELIEVED BY THE ANCIENTS

The ancients had many curious beliefs regarding the magic powers of jewels and precious stones. For instance they thought that the carbuncle stone in the dark. That the amethyst held its possessor harmless from intoxication. The jacinth was a fee to melancholy. The emerald of a sapphire was gifted with prophecy. The beryl kept peace in the family. The diamond enabled its fortunate possessor to detect poisons. Jasper was potent in fevers. Coral was powerful against enchantments. Chalcedony not only laid ghosts, but the wearer could not be crowned. Other jewels such as amber, ebony, alabaster, jet and pearl, likewise had their spiritual properties which gave them additional value.

The origin of the names of jewels is very interesting. Defining the names and noting their origin is the province of the dictionary. This is best done by The New Universities Dictionary. MAKES REPARATION FOR LUST BY WORK IN LEPER COLONY

BROTHER JOSEPH DUTTON

To make reparation for his lust in early life, given by Brother Joseph Dutton, former Janesville man, as his reason for giving up his job to work among the lepers on the island of Molokai, Hawaiian Islands, near Kalawao.

Brother Dutton, now 75 years of age, is entering upon his 30th year of life in the leper colony where he is a great favorite. In a letter, containing the above picture of himself, sent April 27, 1921, and just received here, he tells of his reasons for taking up such a dangerous and disagreeable work voluntarily, without pay.

"Am beginning the 35th year of voluntary service," he writes, "for some years spotted with disfigurement 'sowing of wild oats,' as the common saying goes—taking pleasure in pictures of nude and semi-nude women. This same of pleasure is deadly to the soul, this sin being at the head of the mortal sin, the pleasure of lust.

INDUSTRIAL COURT IN KANSAS SUCCESS SAYS GOV. ALLEN

Former Americans Are Sorely Disappointed in "Promised Land", Russia

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Moscow.—Little groups of Russian-Americans, who were deported or volunteered to go from America to Soviet Russia, are trickling back across the Russian frontier from the land of the Bolsheviks frequently, these days, with the hope of getting back to the United States.

These emigrants, according to American consular officials, who hear their stories and have to tell them there is not much chance for them to get back, are greatly disappointed with what they found in the "Promised Land."

Find Starvation.
They tell of starvation and long rides in trains so packed with people that there is scarcely room to breathe. Besides those who have succeeded in getting to Latvia, there are many others who have written friends in Russia asking for money from America.

The Moscow correspondent of the Niga Rundschau writes as follows about the Russian-Americans inside the country:

"That numbers of Russian Communists expelled from America, who with wry faces are selling their last goods and chattels on the Moscow market places, are increasing every day.

"The Soviet government is doing its utmost to keep these people above water by giving them even whole factories to run and to manage. But as these factories are much run down, even American spirit and energy is not sufficiently strong to set them in operation.

Government Wary.
"A little better off are those of the immigrants who have managed to take from America their tools or goods produced by their trade. Such people are doing a big business and can afford to live well. Thus, one party of emigrants has succeeded in installing a small sawing factory containing about 500 sawing machines."

"Formerly the Soviet government would have simply confiscated this lucrative enterprise but at present the government is a little wary, the more so as in this case they have to do with immigrants whom they make a point of treating with the greatest possible courtesy and consideration.

"Quite recently there arrived a party of Americans whose specialty is the construction of small dwelling houses. They are welcomed and aided by the Soviet government."

PIRATE YARNS ARE OUTLIVING MODERN LITERATURE, CLAIM

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Boston.—The adventures of D'Astrogan, Midshipman Easy, Tom Sawyer and other favorites of a half-century standing are still eagerly read by the children in spite of the "haz" literature that has invaded the field. Miss Alice I. Hazeltine, supervisor of the children's department in the St. Louis Public Library, in addressing the fifth annual institute of librarians held here recently, said the well-thumbed tomes in which a dozen generations had sought guidance as to piratical habits were still read with the unwavering stare and concentration that needs not the dinner-bell.

She added that moving pictures had had no evil influence on the children's reading; in fact more children every month were coming to visualize the greatest adventures of all time between the covers of a book.

She advocated a more widespread introduction of foreign literary stories for children and advised that they be taught to read stories and biographies of American life.

LIGHTER THAN CORK!

By FREDERICK J. HASKIN

Washington, D. C.—A new exhibit in the National Museum displays samples of the lightest wood known—balsa.

A beam of balsa a yard long, three by four inches thick is lying on the table. You bend it pick it up, prepared for its lightness. Yet the sensation of finding a beam of wood so light is a surprise. It is the fact that the beam weighs 1.5 pounds. A tag says that the beam weighs 1.5 pounds.

In the tropics where balsa grows, men carry long thick trunks of balsa trees without the effort necessary in hauling other logs. Balsa is only about 1/10 as heavy as cork, which we regard as a symbol of lightness.

Near the beam in the exhibit is a box about a foot long and a little less in height and width. This box, too, is surprisingly light. But that is not its most interesting feature. It is an ice cream container. The label explains that one quart of ice cream will remain firm in this box for five hours with an outside atmospheric temperature of 75 degrees. In other words, a box of this wood is a sort of iceless refrigerator. This is due to balsa's insulating properties.

When experts became interested in the commercial possibilities of balsa they examined the cells and found them to be barrel-shaped with very thin walls. The soft porous structure of the wood accounted for its lightness and also for its being a good insulator against cold and against heat. In a test made with a fireless cooler containing balsa wood, food placed in the cooler at night was still hot the next morning.

Practical uses of the various experiments are being put to practical use. Balsa is being used extensively for refrigerator linings on ships and for ice boxes.

Still another exhibit in the museum is a cross section of balsa. The wood is almost white and of a rather silky texture, with light-colored bark. The label calls attention to the fact that there are no annual rings such as our temperate zone trees have. Here during the winter months new cells are not filling out and a thin film forms inside them. In the spring cells grow outside of this film and the line remains distinct in a cross section of the wood to mark a year in the life of the tree.

But in the tropics, except in a few places, there is no season of rest from growing. The cells may grow irregularly, swiftly in the rainy seasons and not very much in dry weather, but they are steadily growing, so that the trees are never dormant.

A few years ago, the United States navy sent a ship to the tropics to study the growth of balsa. The ship was named the Albatross. It was sent to the tropics to study the growth of balsa. The ship was named the Albatross. It was sent to the tropics to study the growth of balsa. The ship was named the Albatross. It was sent to the tropics to study the growth of balsa.

Then he heard of a new wood preserving process which had been patented and he got in touch with the inventor. By the process every duct and cell in a piece of wood could be coated with a thin waterproofing substance. This method was tried out on balsa wood and it worked satisfactorily.

The porous wood was made durable and its use as a material for building boats was greatly increased. Since then it has been used in making pontoons for hydroplanes, and in making parts of airplanes where a light, easily worked wood is desirable. Life preservers, rafts, and life boats are being made of balsa as a substitute for cork. So buoyant is the wood that as many as 60 people can ride on some of the life rafts. Yet they do not take up much room on a boat and a number of them can be set afloat quickly in an emergency.

When the submarine mine barrage was laid in the North Sea, 40,000 balsa floats were used. It was said to be the only wood available, which could stand the exposure to water and at the same time resist the impact of death bombs.

Balsa is being used in time of peace for buoys and surf boats and other floating things, and even for making carved toys, where its softness is a desirable feature. As a material for making stoppers for bottles it is replacing cork to a very small extent.

Because of its varied uses, balsa is now regarded as an important product. Experts have visited the American tropics to study the trees in their native state. They report that balsa is one of the swiftest growing trees, that it grows so rapidly that a seed planted shot up in a year to a tree 35 feet tall and about five inches in diameter. In five years, a tree trunk averages nearly 30 inches across and the tree will be from 40 to 60 feet tall. It may not grow any taller than this, but the trunk may reach five feet in thickness. The leaves of the young balsa tree are very large, sometimes three feet across.

All through Central America and the West Indies the balsa trees are found, generally in swampy land.

The extreme lightness of balsa wood was shown graphically when a block of balsa was compared with a block of oak. Blocks of other woods, a cubic foot of balsa weighed 7.5 pounds. Cork, the next lightest was 13.7 pounds, and from there on in round numbers the weights ran through Missouri corkwood 18, spruce 37, hickory 54, ebony 75, and quebracho, the heaviest wood known, 91.

of Bolshevism and Islam in the near east. I am convinced of the sympathy of the people of the United States for the Greeks in their struggle against the Turks.

"I realize that the return of Constantinople to Greece has affected the American people to some degree. Unquestionably, the recalling of Constantinople was a grave error, to which, however, the Greek people are awakening."

About this time the average vacationists are beginning to wire back home for more money.

CHOICE OF TWO EVILS.

Failure of this country to follow the "vogue" of the high Spanish comb which has become so popular in European capitals is attributed by designers, jewelers and dealers to prevalence of the bobbed hair in America. The leopard may change his spots, but bobbed hair will not accommodate a huge Spanish comb of ivory or tortoise, and between the two we don't know which is the uglier—hair stopping about the eyes and ears or a protuberance on the top of the head making a woman look like a cross between a Buff Cochon hen and a Japanese Geisha in full holiday attire.

The Square Man

By VAN AMBURGH—"The Silent Partner."
One of the biggest advantages in life is to be known as a square man.
The brilliant, able, keen man that is unfair, inconsiderate and sharp, will be defeated in his most hopeful and cherished plans.
This is not moralizing—this is commercializing the truth that it pays to be square—square with your neighbor, square with yourself and square with your God.
Roosevelt made the word "square" stand out as one of the incontestable rules for success.

JUST FOLKS

KNOWING HOW.

Some men there are can talk of dates
And tell what old-time sages said,
And some can prate of traffic rates
And spout the chemistry of bread;
In addition, they are varied
Is much to fill the minds of men,
But when a task we stand before,
It's "knowing how" that's needed then.

There are wise tongues which can expound
The deep philosophies of life;
Some know the laws which govern sound,
But it is an art to what to know.
Our nation's pages all are rich
With wisdom from the gifted pen,
But when the world must dig a ditch
It's "knowing how" that's needed then.

The high diploma nicely framed
Is good to own and fair to see,
And no man here need be ashamed
To boast of learning if it finds
No outlet in accomplished deeds,
And vain becomes the polished mind
Unless to "knowing how" it leads.

He is an educated man
Who knows his work and does it well,
Who bulks exactly to the plan,
Who does his duty and is well,
And though of him we little boast
Nor breathe much laurel for his brow,
The man we need and use the most
Is he who serves by "knowing how."

ON THE SPUR OF THE MOMENT

By ROY K. MORTON.

PROFESSOR STEINBRUGGE SAYS:
New York has often been compared to ancient Rome and the tradition has been asked if it will meet the same fate.

Rome was filled with the essence of intellectual civilization. Its citizens indulged in luxury, idleness, pleasure, calumny, feminism and gave more liberty to women than any other city had up to that time. Even a modern Ford would have been comfortable to ride in on the roads leading to Rome.

There were stadiums where "book parties" were given and poets, musicians and singers had full sway. These were known as "festivals of youth" and were also attended by athletes, actors, jockeys, athletes and policemen.

Greek plays were given at the theaters. Some of the plays given at our theaters today are Greek to the audience. The Roman laws were often broken—as they also are today. Rome had its aristocracy and so has New York.

The Sunday edition of one of our leading newspapers published recently a photograph of myself and the distinguished gentlemen who were present when a degree was conferred upon me at the University of the Defunct, says a reader.

I regret to be obliged to state that the incompetent individual who was sent by the publication to snap my picture did so at the wrong moment. I look like an Albatross in my intention to face the camera men with my most intellectual expression upon my face. When I turned to do so I found that they had already taken me and were leaving.

The degree is only conferred upon scholars, scientists and professors of exceptional ability.

Who's Who Today

CHARLES E. HERRING.

Charles E. Herring, the newly appointed trade commissioner for the U. S. department of commerce at Berlin, has just left Washington for his new post. He was appointed to this position in close conference with officials at the national capital, mapping out his Berlin work.

Mr. Herring, who is a native of the national capital and a graduate of the George Washington university, and who has been associated with the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce since 1913. His first post was that of a trade attaché at Berlin. He has been division chief of the tariff division and chief of the division of foreign investigations. Two years ago he was appointed to investigate trade and economic conditions in Belgium and sent to the bureau valuable reports.

Later he was named assistant director of the bureau and recently he has been its acting chief.

The position of trade commissioner at Berlin is considered one of the most important of that branch of the American foreign service and Herring is expected to make his commercial relations get back to normal.

Personal Health Service

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

Noted Physician and Author

THE DISCOMFORTS OF A VACATION (6)

There is now on the market a very compact two-wheel trailer, costing about $75, which would be just about right to carry the first aid kit recommended for vacationists by the U. S. public health service. But maybe a "specially built box car" or an old reliable Pullman would do as well.

The emergency outfit I recommend for the vacationist may be carried in a pocket and should cost not to exceed the price of a day's board. Here's the list—and may heaven have mercy on the reader who writes later and asks me to repeat the list, as he has mislaid the clippings:

1. One ounce of tincture of iodine, to be used for the immediate swabbing of every wound or abrasion.
2. One ounce of flexible collodion, to paint over such wounds or abrasions as are painful or disfiguring.
3. A spool of one-inch adhesive plaster.

4. A box or tube of Lyptoline, which is an ointment, and excellent for burns, sunburn, mosquito bites, etc.
5. One two-inch gauze bandage.
6. One envelope or package of folded sterile gauze.

7. One ounce of aromatic spirits of ammonia.
The remaining items are selected from "The Medicine Cabinet" of Brady's PERSONAL HEALTH, a work which should be in every library if it is not under every motorist's seat:

8. A tube of analgesic ointment—five grains of menthol, five grains of methylsalicylate, one ounce of oil of sweet almond, in external application for relief of headache, neuralgia, and other pains.

9. Two ounces aromatic syrup of rhubarb—the civilized substitute for the crude castor oil of the tropics.
10. Two ounces milk of magnesia—anti-acid, mildly laxative, agreeable alkali.

11. A dozen five-grain tablets of acetylsalicylic acid, one tablet being, as a rule, relief for headache.
12. One ounce of boric acid. As many grains as will dissolve in an ounce of water, boiled, will cure an eye wash or mouth wash or gargle which is without superiors among safe antiseptics.

As everybody knows, aromatic spirits of ammonia, from half an inch of cold water in a glass, is a quickly acting heart stimulant, restoring in effect, but without danger, in fainting, shock, or collapse from any cause, a normal condition of the system.

13. One ounce of water, boiled, will cure an eye wash or mouth wash or gargle which is without superiors among safe antiseptics.

The rest of the list calls for no explanation.

Dinner Stories

We have communicated with the spirit of Diogenes.

"Ask him," we requested the medium, "ask him if he really lived in a tub."

The table moved nervously, the medium snored, and from her lips came the very voice of the great Athenian: "I owned a yacht, you call it a houseboat," said the sage.

The dubious seeress of the times called it a tub. Gimme a drink, I say, gimme—

The voice died away, but we had solved a mystery.

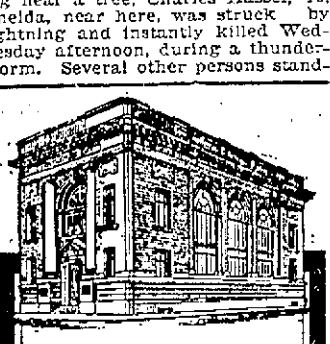

"These blue-law people are always finding offense where no offense is intended. They remind me of the book seller."

22 Bishop Trevor of England wrote a book some time ago called "Love"

Stones." The book was highly recommended to me by a priest. Accordingly I wrote to my book seller and ordered a copy.

The book seller said he had no copy of the book, but he had a copy of Trevor's "Loose Stories" in stock, and he added that if my taste ran to that Did Wilson or Downey Win Middleweight Title Battle?

Copyright 1920 by Geo. McManus.

DOWNNEY WON BOUT SAY EXPERTS BUT REFEREE DIFFERS

Cleveland, Ohio.—The middleweight boxing championship of the world is in dispute Thursday.

According to the Cleveland boxing commission and most writers the title belongs to Bryan Downey, of Cleveland, having acquired it by a knockout over Johnny Wilson of Boston, in the seventh round of a scheduled 15 round no decision contest here Wednesday night.

But Jimmy Gardner, former welterweight boxer, who refereed the match, declared Wilson won the championship because Downey fouled Wilson.

Was Ten Counted?

Wilson was knocked down three times in the final round. The round was not over until the referee counted ten. Wilson was on his feet when the count reached ten. When Gardner counted ten, he was on his feet. When Gardner counted ten, he was on his feet.

After Wilson regained his feet Downey hammered him to the floor again and Gardner counted. According to the referee, eleven seconds elapsed before Wilson staggered to his feet and almost helplessly grabbed the ropes.

Downey again showed him with rights and lefts and Martin Kilbane, Wilson's manager, jumped to the platform and placed his hands on Wilson, who was sagging to the floor for the third time after counting seven Gardner stopped the bout saying Downey had hit Wilson while he was down.

Did Not See Blow

Holders of ringside seats did not see the blow struck. The majority of spectators thought the contest had been stopped because Wilson had been counted out. A near riot followed.

A local referee had been named by the boxing commission to act as third man, but Wilson declared he would not enter the ring unless Gardner officiated.

Although the men boxed at catchweights, Downey weighed 155 pounds in the afternoon in the presence of an official of the boxing commission, according to his manager, Jimmy Dunn. Wilson's weight was said to be about 172 pounds.

"Kid" Schlaifer Fouls in His Own Home Town

Morris "Kid" Schlaifer of Omaha, the chap who was suspended by the Wisconsin state boxing commission for 30 days on being found guilty of fouling in a scrap in Janesville some time ago with Toledo Johnny Lewis, is in bad in his own home town. He lost to Ever Hammer of Chicago on a foul in the sixth as the climax of an alleged "boxing show."

Here's the way the story goes:

"After considerable waste of time Ever Hammer entered the ring with his corner of rubbers, seconds, bookie, etc. When Schlaifer entered, Hammer and his manager, George Rutherford, objected to an elastic belt Schlaifer wore protecting his ribs and stomach. The bout was held up until Schlaifer and his manager, Ike Bernstein, could return to their dressing room and remove the belt."

Boxed Like Amateurs.

"Schlaifer boxed like a school boy. He crossed his arms before his face, waited until Hammer clouted him a couple and then jumped out, swinging both arms like a windmill. He walked up to Hammer and put him down for a count of five. They mixed again and Schlaifer scored another knockout for a count of seven."

The bout continued in this manner until the sixth, when "Schlaifer was winning by landing several of his wild punches and was weakening the Chicagoan when they clinched and Hammer slipped to his knees holding his groin. He limped out of the ring to his dressing room. The referee didn't count, talk, give him the decision, didn't move—
